Hacienda Cincinnati is located within a special biogeographic framework within the Andean tropical rainforest, with more than 20 water sources. Hacienda Cafetera Cincinnati: Certified Organic In 2010, the property was acquired by the Diaz Granados Guida family with the intention of refurbishing the property and rejuvenating the coffee trees. Of the 680 hectares of land, 510 of are in a "Natural Environmental Reserve." It is a stunningly beautiful farm, thick with butterflies, songbirds, fruit, flowers, and fauna. About 18 percent of the world's bird species live in Colombia, and most of them live in this region.

The coffee varieties were of the same strain since the early 1900s, but since the farm was certified organic in 1912 and new varieties have been planted, Hacienda Cincinnati is the first organic coffee project of special varieties in the Sierra Nevada de Santa Martia.

Among the varieties grown there are 42% antique Arabica, 23% Gesha, and the remaining 35% a mix of Mocha, Caturra, and Castillo.

The wet mill, dry mill, and original house have been restored to their original splendor. A state-of-the-art cupping lab has been installed, with a full-time agronomist on site to manage the trees and processing
